KDH, Norton exploring partnership

BY COLLIN OVERTON

King's Daughters' Health announced on Tuesday a formal partnership with Louisville-based healthcare giant Norton Healthcare that could lead to a transfer to non-local ownership for the first time in the hospital's history.

According to a release from KDH, a privately-owned hospital with satellite clinics in Madison, Hanover, Vevay, Versailles, Milton and Carrollton, the two parties signed a letter of intent on Monday enabling both healthcare systems to begin exploring the possibility of a partnership. While still early in the process, the letter is "more of a first step" toward improvements that would help the hospital's longevity, KDH President and CEO Carol Dozier said.

"The board's been looking at this for a couple years — not with Norton but in general — would it benefit the hospital to be part of something bigger, to have that expertise, to have access to technology that we don't have now?" Dozier said.

Locally-owned since its opening in 1899, KDH has long been under the umbrella of the Bethany Circle of King's Daughters and Sons nonprofit

Courthouse, schools close because of COVID-19

BY COLLIN OVERTON

It's starting to feel like March 2020 all over again for residents of the Courierarea, with multiple schools and public buildings closing due to a spike in COVID-19 cases locally and nationwide.

Cases in Jefferson County have roughly tripled since early October, resulting in a dozen COVID-related deaths overall and 10.79% positivity rate from Nov. 8 to Nov. 15.

As a result, virtually every school building in the county has had students and staff test positive for the virus, forcing districts to close their doors for a couple weeks until cases subside. A lack of substitute teachers made it necessary for Madison Consolidated High School to move students to virtual learning last week, but Madison Junior High School will remain virtual through Nov. 30 at the earliest, Madison Consolidated Schools announced Monday night.

"This is primarily a staffing issue, as we have several teachers out due to being considered close contacts, but there is one new positive teacher case and contact tracing is currently taking place as we were just notified. If your child is determined to be a close contact, you will be contacted shortly this evening," the district said in a Facebook post.

Southwestern Jefferson County Schools had to make a similar decision last week, moving all schools to virtual instruction until Wednesday, Nov. 25. The

State figures leave city budget facing shortfall

Mark Campbell

With COVID-19 infection rates spiking and new orders limiting crowd sizes, Madison City Council shifted back to the Zoom platform for Tuesday night's meeting. Mayor Bob Courtney said some city meetings will be by Zoom while others will continue to meet in person with attendance restrictions, social distancing and face masks required. He also said he's working on a initiative to reverse the community's rising infection rates.

Mayor says 'new initiative' coming in effort to slow spread of coronavirus

BY MARK CAMPBELL

The City of Madison's $12.5 million budget for 2021 will need to be adjusted by about 2.7% due to a shortfall in revenue identified when the state reconciled budget estimates used to draft the budget earlier this year with actual revenue receipts.

Madison Chief of Staff Mindy McGee said some adjustments to the budget were expected as part of the reconciliation between projections and actual funds received but the $450,000 hit may result in cutbacks in several areas yet to be determined.

"I think it can be absorbed because there were places where we put funds that can be reallocated," McGee said as the council once held its meeting by Zoom due to rising COVID-19 cases in the county. "But it's going to sting because we had all of these dollars earmarked for maintenance and infrastructure improvements."

The shortfall, like many other adjustments the city has faced this year and is likely to face going into 2021, was primarily related to revenue shortfalls created by the COVID-19 pandemic. Riverboat casino fees — Belterra Casino was closed for much of the spring and summer — and gasoline taxes — with stay-at-home protocols in place and fewer people traveling, less gasoline was purchased — both fell short of projections.

The state reviews all city and county budgets — and the accompanying tax rates — annually to see if local forecasts are inline with actual revenue receipts collected by the state and reallocated locally. If the city overestimates revenues, the tax rate is reduced but if the city underestimates revenue the city is allowed to collect taxes up to an pre-established maximum.

"It's not out of the ordinary" to have to make adjustments in the budget "but it's a little shorter than usual," City Clerk/Treasurer Rick Barry said of the shortfall.

The property tax rate for Madison will deliver about a

"That was my son Gibson and me," answered Jason Wells, when I said I seemed to remember a father and son duo who used to come to Madison and play at the American Legion fairly often.

"I'm originally from a little town up north of Indianapolis called Frankfort, so all these small Indiana towns hold a special place in my heart. Gibson is a multi-instrumentalist and a lot of fun to do shows with.

"I really owe my music career to the Great Recession back around 2008. I got laid off and I had time to focus on taking my guitar playing to the next level. When the economy came back I tried working the 9 to 5 again, but I just couldn't take it. I've been touring around the Midwest and recording albums basically ever since.

"I've played at Buddy Guy's Legends in Chicago, The Slippery Noodle in Indianapolis, The Arcada Theater over in Illinois, the Hard Rock Cafe in Memphis and St. Louis and Indy. I'm very excited about this Thursday's gig at Mad Paddle Brewery. It gives us a kind of midweek place to land and share our style of music on our way between the bigger cities.

"What style of music? Our show is a sort of bluesy classic rock that was popular in the '60s and '70s. We're going for a Rare Earth or Deep Purple kind of vibe. Garry Smith, our keyboardist, plays a Hammond B3 organ with that spinning Leslie speaker cabinet that was so central to that sound back then.

"My son Gibson plays bass in the band, and our drummer is George Sheppard. George is actually a Grammy winner who played with Jimmy Thackery and the Drivers, who used to play with the Nighthawks, so the connections go pretty deep with George. In fact, George was actually a student of Buddy Rich, the famous jazz drummer.

Three arrested on drug charges Monday

BY COURIER STAFF

While investigating two tips concerning alleged drug activity or suspicious behavior on Madison's hilltop, Madison Police made three arrests on narcotics-related charges on Monday, Nov. 16.

Madison Police received a report concerning possible narcotics in Room 1 at the Englewood Hotel, 2629 Michigan Road, at about 12:14 p.m. on Monday.

Detectives Ricky Harris and Kyle Cutshaw responded to the call along with Indiana State Police. A check of the room identified two occupants and heroin, methamphetamine, marijuana and drug paraphernalia were recovered at the premises.

Christopher Lee Giltner, 31, of Madison and Tausha Danyell Thomas, 39, of Hanover, were taken into custody. Thomas was arrested on preliminary charges of possession of heroin and possession of methamphetamine, both Llevel 6 felonies, and possession of marijuana and possession of paraphernalia, both Class A misdemeanors. Giltner was arrested on a preliminary charge of possession of a syringe, a Level 6 felony.

Thomas was lodged in the Jefferson County Jail on Monday where her bond has been set at $1,000 cash. Giltner was processed into the jail Monday and released on his own recognizance.

Later in the day, while responding to an unrelated report of a suspicious vehicle at the nearby Circle K, 116 Clifty Drive, Madison Police located a man being sought in a battery case and when they attempted to take him into custody he physically resisted.

Patrolman Brad Demaree was responding to the call at 8:04 p.m. when he located the vehicle with Christian Blake Horton, 25, of New Castle, Kentucky, inside. Horton was suspected in a physical altercation with another man earlier in the day at Presidential Estates so officers, acting on probable cause, attempted to take him into custody and he physically resisted before being subdued.

An open air sniff of Horton's vehicle was then conducted by K9 Officer Brian Ashcraft and his partner Colt. The dog indicated the presence of narcotics in the vehicle, which established probable cause to conduct a search of the vehicle, and methamphetamine and paraphernalia were located in the vehicle.

Horton faces preliminary charges of possession of methamphetamine, a Level 6 felony, and battery causing bodily injury, possession of paraphernalia and resisting law enforcement, all Class A misdemeanors.

He was lodged in the Jefferson County Jail where he is being held without bond.

Batesville standoff ends in fatal shooting of suspect

BY COURIER STAFF

Indiana State Police are investigating a fatal officer involved shooting that occurred at a Batesville residence after a nearly four-hour standoff with an armed suspect who had fired on the officers.

The incident began at around 8 a.m. Monday when the Batesville Police Department responded to a disturbance at a residence located on Bridlewood Trace Road there. Upon arriving at the home, officers were able to get an adult female and three children out of the home.

An officer was standing outside the garage door of the home and attempting to make contact with the man inside, when a shot was fired by the suspect in the direction of the officer. The officer received minor injuries when he was struck by debris caused by the shot. Officers then set up a perimeter around the residence.

Officers from numerous agencies responded to the scene including the Indiana State Police SWAT Team and Hostage Negotiation Team.

Negotiators were briefly able to make contact with the suspect, who lived at the home but shortly after 11 a.m. additional shots were fired by the suspect from inside of the residence. At approximately 11:30 a.m., the suspect exited the garage of the home with a handgun and officers fired their weapons, striking him with at least one shot.

Officers provided immediate medical attention and Batesville EMS, which was already on scene, immediately began providing care. The man was transported the man to Margaret Mary Health in Batesville where he died as a result of the injuries received.

Detectives from the Indiana State Police-Versailles Post are leading the investigation into the incident.

The identity of the suspect and the officers involved will be released at a later time.

Autopsy and toxicology results are pending at this time.

STATE POLICE INVESTIGATING FATAL FIRE IN AUSTIN

Indiana State Police and crime scene investigators are conducting a death investigation related to fatal house fire in Austin on Tuesday.

Shortly before 5 a.m. Tuesday, the Jennings Township Fire Department and Austin City Police Department responded to a 911 call reporting a residential fire at 45 North Fourth Street in Austin. When firefighters and officers arrived, they found the front of the residence on fire and a utility shed located in the front yard fill engulfed.

After extinguishing the fire, firefighters discovered a body in the charred remains of the utility shed. ISP detectives and crime scene technicians responded and investigated the case throughout the day along with investigators from the Indiana State Fire Marshal's Office, the Austin Police Department and the Scott County Coroner.

The body has been identified as Paul Ray Collins, 41, of Austin. The investigation is ongoing and no official cause for the fire or cause of death has yet been determined.

ISP detectives and crime scene technicians were assisted by units from the Jennings Township Fire Department, the Austin City Police Department, The Scott County Sheriff's Department and the Scott County Coroner.

KSP CHARGE LUCKETT CORRECTIONAL OFFICER

Kentucky State Police arrested a correctional officer at the Luther Luckett Correctional Complex in La Grange, Monday on drug possession charges while on duty at the prison.

The arrest stems from an internal investigation at the state prison in which staff discovered that Ashley Scrogham, 25, a correctional officer from Crestwood, Kentucky, was in possession of a substantial quantity of illegal drugs.

KSP Post 5 in Campbellsburg was contacted just before noon on Monday and notified of the incident and the discovery of the drugs, and a trooper initiated an investigation.

The investigation revealed that while working as a correctional officer, Scrogham brought a quantity of two different illegal drugs onto the property and into the facility. It was also discovered that she had been financially compensated for bringing the drugs into the prison and had placed money into the prison account of an inmate, which is prohibited by prison staff.

Scrogham is charged with Trafficking in a Controlled Substance First Degree, Trafficking in Synthetic Drugs, Possession of a Controlled Substance First Degree, Possession of Synthetic Drugs, Promoting Contraband First Degree and Official Misconduct First Degree — all felonies. She is lodged at the Oldham County Detention Center on a $2,500 cash bond.

The investigation remains ongoing at this time.

organization. Meanwhile, Norton is the fourth largest employer in Louisville and a major player in Kentuckiana healthcare with more than 250 locations throughout Kentucky and southern Indiana.

"King's Daughters' commitment to quality, their talented providers and employees who support them, as well as their deep connections to community have long been impressive to us," said Russell F. Cox, president and CEO of Norton Healthcare. "We are honored to partner with King's Daughters' to ensure exceptional care close to home and increased access to specialty care as needed. We share similar cultures as proven community leaders with a deep commitment to our employees, to our patients and their families and to the communities we are honored to serve. We look forward to working together."

An expanded partnership with Norton could be an opportunity for new programs and additional resources, while transfering ownership from Bethany Circle to Norton while still being separately licensed and retaining the KDH name if plans advance, Dozier said.

She added that the letter of intent is effective immediately, but it will be months before KDH and Norton finish negotiating what a partnership will look like. Until then the two parties will explore options, share information and discuss care models and effective dates, Dozier said.

The first order of business will most likely be moving health records to Epic, Norton's electronic record keeping database, she said. Doing so would be less costly than KDH creating a database itself, although Dozier denied finances as being a reason for the potential partnership.

"We're not really doing this for financial reasons, that's not our driver. KDH is in a good position — obviously Norton is in a good position — but on the IT side it would definitely save us money to hook onto their system," Dozier said.

KDH already partners with Norton through an affiliation with the Norton Cancer Institute, which provides oncology physicians and program support for the hospital's Cancer Treatment Center that opened in 2015. The hospital also has ongoing relationships with Norton physicians, KDH Public Information Specialist Dave Ommen said.

Ommen said it was too soon to tell if the partnership will add any jobs or expansions. However, siding with a major regional healthcare provider could strengthen local access to care and bring more big-city resources to Madison, he said.

"The goal for all of this is for local access to healthcare to remain strong both now and well into the future," Ommen said.

HOOSIER

"The actual drum kit George will be playing at Mad Paddle is made up from Buddy Rich's kit and some stuff from Louie Bellson, another legendary jazz drummer.

"Speaking of legendary equipment, Jimmy Thackery passed down to me his pair of Category 5 guitar amps. These are handmade tube amps, the best sounding I've ever played. Jimmy developed his unique tone by running his guitar into a chorus pedal and then splitting the sound to the two amps. It's the most dynamic guitar sound you'll ever hear, just huge and almost three dimensional.

"My connection to George Sheppard is opening a lot of doors for me, putting me in contact with some of the blues and rock legends I've looked up to my entire life. I have some big plans for the other side of this COVID thing, putting together a kind of touring workshop experience where we involve some of these amazing guys and pass down that classic rock heritage. Hopefully summer of 2021, keep and eye out.

"I hope to meet a lot of Madison people at Mad Paddle Thursday night. I understand the show is limited to 50 people, so it's going to be very intimate and fun. Come out and give us a listen, we will put on a helluva show for you."

HOT TIP OF THE WEEK

Hats off to the Riverboat Inn for their consistent support of live music! They have shows this Thursday, Friday and Saturday, and all three will be led by the multi-talented Joe Perkinson. Joe is joined by guitar wizard Deano Crafton on Thursday and Saturday, but on Friday you can enjoy the sizzling vocals of Amy Noel and horn prowess of (new Madison resident!) Michael Fortunato. Looking ahead to Thanksgiving Eve next Wednesday, Mad Paddle will be hosting Two Buck Chuck and all their classic rock favorites, in the newly renovated big Truss Room. Plenty of room to spread out and enjoy live music with family and friends!

BUDGET

2.5% to 3% increase in property tax revenue to partially offset the other shortfalls. The city will know precise figures once the state's final report is received.

One area the budget shortfall is unlikely to impact is the city's effort to grow a reserve fund for road improvements as recommended and implanted by former Clerk/Treasurer Bob Cooke and Mayor Daman Welch.

Knowing that the city would be taking over maintenance of State Road 62 from Jefferson Street to the top of Hanover Hill in 2020 as part of the US 421 Bridge Gateway to Madison project, Cooke and Welch decided to start putting money aside with a goal of saving $1 million by the end of 2020.

Madison City Council approved a resolution to transfer more money to that non-reverting road fund Tuesday night, increasing the fund to $983,000 which can be used for road improvements, a Main Street redesign or as matching dollars to state and/or federal grants for road improvements.

McGee said the city's 2021 budget sets aside a similar amount to the last few years so the fund should continue to grow until the city has the right opportunity to start spending from the account.

"I'd like to commend Bob Cook and Mayor Welch on their diligence on getting this fund started," Councilman Curtis Chatham, sponsor of the resolution, said.

McGee noted that the city will apply for both state and federal road grants in late November and early December so depending on how those applications are scored, the money may be needed in 2021.

The mayor later addressed the community's rising COVID-19 infection numbers and indicated that he will soon announce a "new initiative to reduce our positivity rate and get back into the blue where we had resided most of the summer."

A color-coded statewide map breaks counties down by infection levels with white being no cases, blue very low cases, then yellow and red for higher levels of cases.

Courtney, who himself has been isolating at home since last week, said that although some governmental buildings are once again closing to the public due to the pandemic, city hall will remain open for now but visitors will be screened for illness and to identify their specific business to better reduce exposure to staff.

"We're going to leave city hall open because we think we have the proper precautions in place," Courtney said, "but we'll be more assertive with enforcement."

He said he hopes local businesses will adopt a similar approach to stay open but be vigilant in controlling the outbreak and demanding that customers do their part.

"We have the proper protocols for mitigation," Courtney said. "We need to avoid crowded indoor places, wear a mask when we're supposed to, practice hand-washing and don't go to work if you feel sick."

While fielding media questions after the meeting, Courtney said the community needs to "follow Gov. (Eric) Holcomb's orders. "They are very detailed — about 15 pages — and everyone needs to follow those orders."

He said he thinks enforcement of the orders will fall on the Jefferson County Health Department, which can conduct inspections and investigate problems similar to restaurant inspections — but that businesses also need to protect their own establishments to keep staff and customers safe by not serving customers who fail to comply.

Courtney added that he "strongly encourages" local residents to take advantage of the free testing opportunities that exist locally, noting that despite having multiple local test sites "not enough people are taking advantage … we're still lagging behind on testing and everybody should do that."

In other business, McGee provided an update on leaf collection — another local service impacted by the virus — and said the loss of manpower from the Madison Correctional Unit continues to slow leaf removal in all areas of the city and thanked residents for their patience.

The city has contracted with the Jefferson County Sheriff's Office to allow county inmates to volunteer for leaf removal details supervised by a deputy and that has allowed the city to operate two leaf trucks but with so much territory to cover, progress remains slow.

McGee said that rather than waiting on the city's vacuum trucks, residents could opt to bag their leaves so that the city's compost crew could then pick up the bags for leaf removal.

McGee also reported that she, the mayor and department heads will hold a strategic retreat in December for additional planning going into 2021. In addition to developing an outline of action for all departments, the group will also engage in some development activities to become more skilled and informed managers.

COURTHOUSE

plan is to return Monday, Nov. 30 after Thanksgiving break, Superintendent Jeff Bates said in a letter to families.

The Switzerland County School Corporation is also closed for virtual learning until Nov. 30, the district announced last Friday after nine students tested positive over the span of a week.

"Currently, nine of our 1,433 students are home with a positive COVID-19 case. This is a small fraction of our student population at just over one-half of one%," the Switzerland County School Corporation announced on Facebook. "These most recent cases have developed since last Thursday. Knowing it is a small percentage of students, all extracurricular practices will continue but be closed to spectators and events will be limited to two family members only."

Elsewhere in Jefferson County, county government offices are closing and restrictions are being reimplemented to slow the local spread of the virus.

Starting Wednesday, all Jefferson County offices began operating by appointment only. Anyone needing to contact a county office can find contact information at https://jeffersoncounty.in.gov/directory.aspx. Anyone unsure of which office to contact can submit a request to the county's website at https://jeffersoncounty.in.gov/FormCenter.

"We know that most of you are waiting to purchase trash cards, we are still working through some of the new processes. You will have plenty of time to purchase a card. A press release will published as soon as we are ready," the county posted on Facebook.

Meanwhile, Madison City Hall will remain open to the public for now but with visitors screened for virus symptoms and purpose of visit to expedite visits and limit interaction to the entire staff.

"We're going to leave city hall open because we think we have the proper precautions in place," Mayor Bob Courtney, who himself has been isolating at home since last week, said, "but we'll be more assertive with enforcement."

Courtney said he hopes local businesses will adopt a similar approach to stay open but be vigilant in controlling the outbreak and demanding that customers do their part.

"We have the proper protocols for mitigation," Courtney said. "We need to avoid crowded indoor places, wear a mask when we're supposed to, practice hand-washing and don't go to work if you feel sick."

He said he thinks enforcement of mask wearing, crowd sizes and social distancing will fall on the Jefferson County Health Department, which can conduct inspections and investigate problems similar to restaurant inspections — but that businesses also need to protect their own establishments to keep staff and customers safe by not serving customers who fail to comply.

Courtney also "strongly encouraged" local residents to take advantage of the free testing opportunities that exist locally, noting that despite having multiple local test sites "not enough people are taking advantage … we're still lagging behind on testing and everybody should do that."

Also on Wednesday, King's Daughters' Health announced new restrictions effective Friday that will prohibit visitors from entering the hospital or any KDH facility unless they are healthy, masked and accompanying either a patient in the Mother-Baby Unit at the hospital or a pediatric patient. Group sizes will be limited to one person.

Despite Trimble County dipping into the higher red zone for COVID-19 infections early in the month, Trimble County Public Schools has remained open for in-person classes all semester. The school district has kept an overall low incidence rate inside school buildings despite a spike locally that brought Trimble's case count to 137 overall as of last Friday, according to the North Central District Health Department. Three of those are active and one resident has died since March.

However, that will change come Monday and Tuesday, which the district will use for non-traditional instruction days before students go on Thanksgiving break on Wednesday. Students are to use the time to catch up on missed assignments and review their progress, the school corporation announced Wednesday morning.

"While these measures have helped us to continue in-person learning for several weeks, we would like to increase our chances of being able to continue in-person learning by conducting a brief return to virtual learning for all students," Trimble County Schools posted to Facebook. "With next week being only a two-day school week due to the Thanksgiving holiday, we feel this is the perfect time for our staff and students to get caught up and to minimize community spread."

Trimble County had one active student case and no active staff cases as of the district's last COVID update last Thursday, although 10 students and two staff members were in isolation due to contact exposure. Since the start of the school year, 10 students and six staff members have tested positive.

Carroll County School District switched its junior high to virtual learning for three days early in the month but so far has no other plans to close as cases continue to spike.

Carroll County is among counties in the red for having an average of 25 daily cases per 100,000 people, according to state data.

KENTUCKY HIGH SCHOOL BASKETBALL PREVIEW

Bluegrass hoops ready to kick off week early

BY DAVID CAMPBELL

The Kentucky High School basketball season will begin a week earlier than normal this season meaning that for the first time in recent memory, teams will be hitting the hardwood during Thanksgiving week.

Carroll County and Trimble County have both taken advantage of the new timetable by scheduling their own "Turkey Shootout," a boys-girls doubleheader on Thanksgiving Eve. With the annual Madison-Southwestern games being moved to January, it will be the only games in town.

Those turkey eve games could both be down-to-the-wire contests as both schools enter the season with evenly-matched squads. A look at each of the four Kentucky teams.

Photos by David Campbell

Carroll County's Keishaun Mumphrey averaged a double-double last year and will be one of the top players in the area this season.

Trimble County's Shelby Wilcoxson led the area in scoring last season at 16.5 points per game.

CARROLL COUNTY PANTHERS

With only three varsity returners from last year's 10-19 squad, Carroll County's boys will look much different this season. But while the Panthers will be young, second-year coach Jonathan Moore is looking forward to seeing them in action.

The Panthers will miss high-scoring guard Wyatt Supplee (24.0 ppg) but will now look to Keishaun Mumphrey to carry the load. The 6-foot-3 senior averaged a double-double of 14.9 points and 10.0 rebounds per game last year and is expected to be one of the top players in this part of the state.

"We will go as far as Keishaun takes us this season," Moore said. "Last year we saw so much junk and trapping defenses to try and slow Wyatt this year we expect much of the same with Keishaun."

Junior guard Jaxon Hewitt averaged 3.0 ppg and 1.5 rpg last year and will be expected to step into a bigger role this year as will junior Andrew Shaw. Along with Mumphrey, they represent Carroll's returners on varsity.

But there are several newcomers from whom Moore expects big things, including a freshman group that won the district title as eighth graders last year. Landon Isaacs, Luke Staley and move-in Jake Ulrey are new upperclassmen while freshmen Braden Stephenson, Landon Groves and Seth Franklin will play significant roles as well.

"I really like this young group," Moore said. "Hopefully by February we are in the thick of it and competing for a district title. I look forward to coaching this group as they are as coachable as any I have been around."

Carroll County opens the 2020-21 season at home on Monday against Lloyd Memorial in a North Central Kentucky Conference matchup, then heads to Trimble County on Wednesday.

CARROLL COUNTY LADY PANTHERS

Carroll County's girls will be young, but there are plenty of reasons to believe the Panthers will be able to improve on their 11-20 record from a year ago.

Despite having only one senior on the team, second-year coach Hannah Devine believes that her squad is deep in talent and could be one of the surprises in the area.

"We don't have a large amount of girls on the squad, but we have a great group of 12 quality players. To me, this is a special group of kids that I am really thankful for," Devine said. "I foresee us being competitive in every game that we are in this year. Our team is deeper than it has been since I have been on the coaching staff. In this program, we strive to be better today than we were yesterday and I believe the program continues to take all the right steps to move forward with our wonderful coaches and players. This should be an exciting year for us."

Peyton Devine is the team's only senior, averaging less than a point per game in limited time last year. The strength of the team is in the junior class where Jordyn Shepherd (11.4 ppg), Kamryn Knight (7.4 ppg) and Bailee Matthews (3.3 ppg) averaged 22 points per game last season. All three also averaged more than three rebounds per game with Matthews chipping in 2.5 assists per contest.

Boyfriend texts female friend back but not me

ANNIE LANE
DEAR ANNIE

Dear Annie: A few months ago, I found out that my boyfriend was messaging a girl. He says she is just a friend. I've asked where he knows her from, but he brushes it off and says it was just a friendly text. I believe him that she's just a friend, but what bothers me is that the whole time this was happening, he would tell me that he was too busy to reply to me. He does work a lot so I've tried not to be understanding when there's limited communication.

However, it hurts me that he took the time to reply to her messages during his workday while saying that he didn't have time to reply to mine. It has been two months since I discovered this, and I am still very upset. I've brought it up again a couple of times, and he listens to a point, but then he just shuts down the conversation, saying she's just a friend and I shouldn't worry about it. — Not Over It

Dear Not Over It: His texting a female friend is not the core issue, as you seem to acknowledge. The core issue is your feeling devalued by his lack of communication. Put the emphasis squarely on that. Let him know your needs — for instance, "I would feel loved and important if you could respond within a few hours of my texting you, even if it's just to say that you're too busy to respond." Without good communication, even the smallest of things can fester and infect the relationship. With good communication, couples can heal the most painful wounds. So, get talking.

Dear Annie: I am the mother of three incredible adult children. About a year and a half ago, my only daughter just cut me off without any explanation. My youngest son then moved in next door to her and hasn't spoken to me in almost a year. They both refuse to talk to me.

So much has happened since then. My daughter got engaged and since then has gotten married she did not tell me of either the engagement or the wedding. I had to, unfortunately, find out on Facebook.

She did not invite anyone from my side of the family. She did invite her dad (my ex-husband) and his new wife. She also invited her new mother-in-law, father-in-law and brother-in-law and his girlfriend. I have been so hurt I'm at a loss for words. — Mom Cast Aside

Dear Mom Cast Aside: One of the hard parts of this job is trying to discern what a letter leaves out. I'm struggling with that here. It would be strange indeed for a son and daughter to both abruptly cut off contact with their mother for no reason. I wonder what their perspectives might be.

No matter what happened between you all, though, I'm sure it's very painful for you to not have contact with them and to miss your daughter's wedding. It's natural to be feeling some resentment right now. Counseling could help you work through these emotions and find peace, and I strongly encourage you to give it a try. Your primary care doctor can refer you to therapists, or you can also call the national helpline SAMHSA (1-800-662-4357) to be connected with resources in your area.

Moving somewhere new

DEAR ANNIE

Dear Annie: I have always dreamed of moving to Memphis, Tennessee, and would really like to do so. It cost so much to get a hotel there, so I know I would need to find an apartment to rent pretty quickly. Can you give me some advice on what I can do as soon as I get there to get situated? I do not have a job lined up, but I would like to relocate there as soon as possible. — Dreaming of Memphis

Dear Dreaming: First, save. Second, save some more. You should have enough set aside to last at least three to six months. When calculating your living expenses, take into account rent, groceries, utilities and other daily expenses such as ordering out from restaurants. Be realistic now so that you're not sorry later.

If you can safely do so, travel to Memphis ahead of time to look at apartments. Having a place lined up makes the moving process simpler and less expensive. You'll be able to move right in, with no worries as to where to store your things, and no need to drop hundreds or thousands of dollars on staying at a hotel room indefinitely.

If you are apartment-hunting from afar, then be cautious. On websites such as Craigslist, scammers will often advertise properties that they don't actually own, in an attempt to steal the fee for a "rental application" or security deposit. It would be safer to work with a rental agent or go through rental management companies.

Start applying to jobs before you move. It's harder to get a job in a city in which you don't yet live, but not impossible. Let potential employers know a firm date by when you will be in town and able to work. Having a job will make the transition smoother financially and also socially, as it gives you a chance to meet new people right off the bat.

Lastly, a big asterisk to all this: I'd strongly encourage you to wait on moving until the COVID-19 pandemic has subsided.

Dear Annie: I have complex PTSD from the first 18 years of my life involving sexual abuse and witnessing violent abuse on my brother and mother.

I have found a wonderful therapist and have quieted a lot of the guilt, shame and night terrors but I continue to have low self-esteem, anxiety and depression that I choose not to medically treat because of being 54 and not wanting to increase my chances at dementia. Because of this trauma, am I likely to get dementia because of the damage that was caused from years of abuse? — Concerned About Consequences

Dear Concerned: I am so sorry for what you went through and so relieved to hear you have a therapist whom you like. You raise an important issue. The available scientific research does indicate that the stress of PTSD can increase one's risk of dementia. A review published in September 2020 found that people who suffer from PTSD are up to twice as likely to develop dementia later in life. The exact reasons for this are unknown. A 2018 study noted that PTSD increases levels of cytokines (proteins that trigger immune responses), which cause inflammation that may damage the brain. So, it's important that you get appropriate and comprehensive mental health care. Talk to your physician and your therapist about what the best course of treatment might be.

Tulsa in at 25; Indiana set for top-10 matchup

BY RALPH D. RUSSO
AP COLLEGE FOOTBALL WRITER

No. 25 Tulsa is ranked in The Associated Press college football poll for the first time in 10 years and No. 9 Indiana is set to play the first regular-season, top-10 matchup in program history.

The AP Top 25 was mostly stagnant Sunday after four of the top five teams did not play and only one ranked team lost this weekend.

Alabama is No. 1 for the second straight week, with 60 first-place votes. No. 2 Notre Dame received one first-place vote and No. 3 Ohio State got the other. The rest of the top eight was unchanged: Clemson is No. 4, followed by Texas A&M, Florida, Cincinnati and BYU.

Indiana moved up one spot to ninth — the Hoosiers' best ranking since they were fourth in the 1967 poll — heading into a matchup with Ohio State on Saturday. Indiana played in its only top-10 matchup in school history after that 1967 season, facing No. 1 Southern California as the fourth-ranked team in the country in the Rose Bowl.

Tulsa moved into the rankings after beating American Athletic Conference rival SMU, knocking the Mustangs from the Top 25.

The Golden Hurricane were last ranked in the final poll of the 2010 season at No. 24. The last time Tulsa was ranked during the regular season was two years before that, when coach Todd Graham had the Golden Hurricane as high at No. 19.

POLL POINTS

Clemson has now been ranked in the top five for 50 consecutive weeks, the longest active streak in college football and the third-longest streak in the history of the AP poll.

The Tigers reached No. 4 on Nov. 5, 2017, and have been in the top five ever since. The longest streak of top-five rankings belongs, of course, to Alabama. The Crimson Tide's record streak was snapped last year at 68 consecutive polls.

The second-longest run of top-five appearances is Miami's streak of 55 from 2000-03.

HOOPS

"Jordyn Shepherd is coming off a pretty good sophomore season and we are expecting her to keep that going into this year. She is someone who can be utilized in multiple positions, and is a threat on both sides of the ball," Coach Devine said. "Kamryn Knight is a returning starter from last year who has a really nice shot, and was one of the top offensive threats in our last season. She is someone we know will always give her very best every time she hits the floor."

Along with the juniors, sophomore Courtney Strickland (4.4 ppg, 2.1 rpg), freshman Katie Hensley (3.0 ppg), sophomore Reagan Matthews (1.2 ppg, 4.4 rpg), and freshman Madie Hicks (1.1 ppg) were effective in limited time last season.

"We have many younger girls this year who are going to see many minutes on the floor and who are going to be influential in the play of our team for several years to come," Devine said. "Any of these girls can be a stand out on any given night. I think our team knows their roles, and everyone has a job that they are expected to execute."

Carroll's first game of the season will be the Thanksgiving eve matchup with Trimble County in Bedford on Wednesday.

TRIMBLE COUNTY RAIDERS

With seven seniors and juniors, Trimble County's boys will feature their most experienced roster in several years as the Raiders try to improve on last year's 7-22 campaign.

Trimble lost career leading scorer Reece Webster to graduation but senior guard Dylan Jennings will be expected to pick up the slack after a breakout season where he averaged 12.8 ppg last season. Fellow senior Ryan Long (5.6 ppg), junior Tate Ogburn (5.4 ppg, 3.2 rpg) and sophomore J.T. Wilcoxson (3.4 ppg) make up the core of the Raiders' top returners.

Trimble opens the season on Monday at Spencer County then hosts Carroll County on Wednesday in the Thanksgiving Eve contest.

TRIMBLE COUNTY LADY RAIDERS

Shelby Wilcoxson led the area in scoring last season and Trimble County is hoping that its senior leader can lead the Raiders back to a championship this year after going 12-16 last year.

Wilcoxson averaged 16.5 points and 6.7 rebounds per game last season and she became the ninth Lady Raider in history to join the 1,000-point club. Needless to say, big things are expected of her in her final season.

"We expect senior Shelby Wilcoxson to lead the charge," Trimble coach Kerrie Stewart said. "She has spent a great deal of time in individual skill work and has taken her game to a new level. While we will depend on her as a leader, we are confident her teammates are also ready to meet the challenge."

Aiding Wilcoxson this year will be a trio of returners who are ready to step up into bigger roles this season.

Sophomore Emma Ginn is a two-year starter and averaged 5.6 ppg and 5.9 rpg last year while junior Danielle Craig added 3.6 ppg last season. Freshman Addison Edmondson gained valuable experience as an eighth grader last year averaging 2.9 ppg and should step right in this year.

"Emma Ginn proved to be very solid this past year. Her outside shooting ability has improved and will only add to her contribution to this year's team," Stewart said. "Danielle Craig will serve as a ball-handler and defensive stopper and has also shown improvement in her ability to score. Addison Edmonson has good quickness. We expect her to be a force both in getting to the basket and in outside scoring. If she learns how to really push herself, she can be a big contributor."

Seniors Emma Horn and Macy Stark will provide valuable minutes inside and sophomore Grace Jent is a good shooter and a solid passer. Junior Elise Beeles and freshmen Courtney Douglas and Payton Butters will also contribute.

"It will take all 10 of these young ladies — and the eighth graders that will join us once their middle school season ends — working hard, working together and improving in efficiency for us to be successful," Stewart said. "We believe they are up to the challenge and look forward to the 2020-2021 season!"

Trimble County opens the season at home against Carroll County on Wednesday in the Thanksgiving eve game.

PETS OF THE WEEK

BY COURIER STAFF REPORT

The Madison-Jefferson County Animal Shelter currently has a number of dogs and cats and kittens available for adoption including the final two siblings from a litter of black kittens.

Harmony is a 3-month-old black domestic short haired female. She is one of the last two kittens from her litter and very sweet. She loves other cats and people and is looking for her furever home. Sibling Heather is identical to Harmony except that she has a white spot on her belly. She also is a very sweet kitten and will be fine adopted with her sister harmony or by herself. She is very playful and keeps a pretty clean kennel.

The shelter thanks and appreciates those who have been donating non-stop to the facility. The shelter currently is in need of heavy duty dog leashes, wet and dry cat food, plain clay cat litter and hand soap refills. Donations may be left outside of the yellow door at the shelter, 2727 Hannah Drive, Madison, and a staff member will collect them.

HARMONY

The shelter has pictures of additional pets waiting for adoption for viewing at www.sisaveapet.com. The shelter is currently open, but in light of COVID-19, will only take appointments and will not accept walk-in customers. To request an appointment, email animal.shelter39@ jeffersoncounty.in.gov. All cats and kittens are $45 off unless they are already spayed or neutered.

Volunteers are always welcome at the shelter. Individuals must be at least 16 years old to volunteer. Volunteers can help with everyday cleaning, answering phones, and exercising the pets. Contact the shelter for details.

Those with missing pets can call or email a complete description of the pet, when and where it was last seen, the owner's name and contact information, and a picture of the pet. Pets are held for three days before they are made available for adoption. Animals should not be abandoned outside of the shelter or dropped off at the shelter after hours. For animal control issues in Madison, call 812-265-3347. For animal control issues in Hanover and Jefferson County, call 812-265-2648.
